Statements of work: legally compliant, reliable and efficient

As one of the globally leading personnel service providers for qualified specialists in engineering and headquartered in Mannheim, Hays operates across the private and public sectors and places experts in temporary assignments, permanent positions and projects. Now, the exhibitor also supports its customers with statements of work. Therefore, Hays Technology Solutions GmbH as independent subsidiary of Hays was founded in 2014. According to the management, the company draws on its bundled know-how and ISO-certified processes to manage customer projects reliably, efficiently and with full legal compliance. They comprise, for instance, the development and testing of train software or developments in autonomous driving. Realising a project for a Canadian train manufacturer, the Hays project team performed all system checks under real conditions on a test track.
