New platform for combining means of transport inclusive best price guarantee

Connecting Mobility

Bus, train, taxi or better still, car-/bike sharing? There are as many options for getting from A to B as there are different fares and special rates. So it's no surprise that some passengers need help navigating the mobility maze. Together with Siemens and HaCon, eos.uptrade presents a platform enabling customers to use different mobility services (incl. parking) through an app that also calculates the best price. Just register and log in for quick access. In addition to the usual payment methods, passengers can also use Google Pay or Apple Pay without the need to register first. The new platform from leading innovator eos.uptrade meets all the requirements of intermodal mobility within the meaning of a MaaS concept: The platform integrates different mobility services, thus providing users with an easy cruise to the cheapest fare.
